Denver Scholarship Foundation Welcomes Andy Miller to its Board of Directors

Denver, CO – Denver Scholarship Foundation (DSF) is proud to welcome Andy Miller to its board of directors. Miller brings extensive leadership experience in private equity and a long history of service to educationally focused nonprofit organizations. Miller was elected to his position on the board on November 10.

Miller is a third generation Coloradoan and a proud alumnus of Denver Public Schools (DPS). He co-founded Copley Equity Partners, a private equity firm, in 2012 and heads Copley's Denver office. Miller is also the co-chief investment officer and on the board of managers of Fox Rock Capital, a family office investment company, which makes investments into alternative asset managers.

Miller has been on the DSF finance & investment committee since 2018. He is an advocate for DSF students and Scholars in the community. "DSF is an exceptional organization with an incredible leadership team. I am excited to work with the entire DSF team to continue their efforts to reach more students each year and to deepen the impact on each life touched," noted Miller. "With the help of DSF, college can be a reality for any student in Denver as long as they work hard at it. That has a tremendous impact on the students, their families and our community as a whole."

Miller has deep connections to the district having attended kindergarten through high school at DPS. Miller received an MBA from Harvard Business School where he graduated with Second Year Honors and has a degree in Economics, cum laude, from Dartmouth College.

"We are excited to welcome Andy Miller to our board of directors," said Lorii Rabinowitz chief executive officer of DSF. "With a long history of leadership experience and a passion for education and students, Mr. Miller's role provides opportunity to continue building DSF's talent pipeline."

Since its founding in 2006, DSF has served 7,676 Scholars thanks to the strong leadership of its board of directors.
